AI Collective chapter launch decision

A decision-ready plan for launching a credible, repeatable local chapter.

Build the local front door to applied AI

A chapter lead becomes a visible facilitator and go-to resource for the local AI community.

DECISION EVIDENCE

180+

CHAPTERS

40+

COUNTRIES

400+

ORGANIZERS

A global community that includes everyone from solo founders to teams at the biggest AI labs in the world.

Start with one repeatable event format

The network already runs Demo Nights, hackathons, private dinners, and workshops. Choose one format that matches the local audience and can repeat.

A four-week launch sequence

WorkshopLM recommendation derived from the chapter brief; confirm timing and required approvals with AI Collective HQ.

WEEK 1

Confirm the lead team and chapter purpose

WEEK 2

Secure the first format, venue, and partner

WEEK 3

Open registration and activate local outreach

WEEK 4

Host the first event and review the evidence

DECISION CONTEXT

Design for financial sustainability before launch

Treat a repeatable venue and partner model as a launch condition—not cleanup after the first event.

Trust begins at registration

The Code of Conduct covers attendees, speakers, sponsors, and volunteers. The current privacy policy governs event registration data and media use.

Make three decisions before announcing

The launch is credible when ownership, the first experience, and the operating partner are explicit.

01

Who owns the chapter and each launch workflow?

02

What is the first event format and target date?

03

Which venue or partner makes the cadence sustainable?

Approve a 30-day chapter launch sprint

Use week one to confirm owners and HQ requirements. Do not announce until the first format, date, venue, and trust obligations have named owners.
